AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

Affirmative Defense No. 1

76. Plaintiff's copyright claims are barred, in whole or in part, because the alleged works are not protectable because:

a. One or more of the alleged works lack the requisite originality;

- b. One or more of the alleged works are not owned by Plaintiff because they are primarily derived from third-party works;
- c. One or more of the alleged works are subject to the merger doctrine because the idea is inseparably tied to the expression of the idea;
- d. One or more of the alleged works are subject to the scenes a faire doctrine because the work contains features that are inseparable or standard for such a work;
- e. One or more of the alleged works are merely business ideas or concepts that may not be copyrighted; and/or
- f. One or more of the alleged works was not timely registered.

Affirmative Defense No. 2

77. Plaintiff's copyright claims are unenforceable against Defendants, in whole or in part, because:

- a. Plaintiff has unclean hands based on its misconduct, fraud, and/or bad faith;
- b. Plaintiff has engaged in copyright misuse;
- c. One or more of Defendants' accused works are the product of independent effort by Defendants;
- d. One or more of Plaintiff's alleged works is merely a derivative work of substantially similar works created by third-parties and any alleged "incremental originality" is de minimis; and/or
- e. One or more of its alleged works failed to include a proper copyright notice.

Affirmative Defense No. 3

78. According to Plaintiff's Original Complaint, Plaintiff claims a copyright in the following alleged jewelry designs: "Letters on Tye Dye," "Letters on Cheetah Spots," "Letters on Blue Polka Dots," "Crosses (7 versions)," "Cheer," "Peace Sign," "Peace," "Peace Fingers," "Ballerina Shoes," "Guitar," "I Love Gymnastics," "Soccer Ball," "Basketball," "Volleyball," "Football," "BFF {best friends forever}," "Cupcakes (3 versions)," "Ice Cream Cone," "Butterfly (4 versions)," "Horses," "Drama Queen," "Flowers (4 versions).

79. Nothing in deposit materials obtained from the Copyright Office of the United States identifies these alleged jewelry designs by the titles assigned by Plaintiff in this action. The deposit materials do not appear to extend to any specific (singular) bottle-cap design, but rather (at most) to specific groupings of bottle-caps and/or photographs/marketing materials.

Affirmative Defense No. 4

80. Defendants incorporate by reference Paragraphs 78-79 as though fully set forth at this point at length.

81. Upon information and belief, Plaintiff copied and utilized clip art that is in the public domain in one or more of the foregoing jewelry designs. Plaintiff is not entitled to copyright protection in any design elements that are in the public domain.

82. Upon information and belief, Plaintiff also copied or utilized clip art owned by third-parties in one or more of the foregoing jewelry designs. Upon information and belief, Plaintiff lacked authorization to so use the clip art. Plaintiff is not entitled to copyright protection in any design derivative of earlier third-party works. Additionally, to the extent Plaintiff's work is itself an infringement of the copyrights in another's earlier third-party work, it is entitled to no copyright protection.

Affirmative Defense No. 5

83. Defendants incorporate by reference Paragraphs 78-79 as though fully set forth at this point at length.

84. A comparison between (1) the jewelry sold by Defendants and (2) the true representations of the deposit materials obtained from the Copyright Office of the United States for Copyright Registration Nos. VA I - 665-063, VA 1-684-413, and VA 1-665-059 indicates that Plaintiff is improperly attempting to claim copyright rights in the idea of bottle-cap jewelry rather than in a specific expression or design. Plaintiff has no copyright or other exclusive right in the idea of depicting certain types of images (such as animal prints, letters, tie-dye, polka dots, crosses, megaphones, peace signs, ballet shoes, musical instruments, soccer balls, basketballs, volley balls, footballs, cupcakes, ice cream cones, butterflies, animals, and flowers) and/or common phrases or clichés (such as "BFF," "Peace," "Cheer," "Drama Queen," and "Gymnastics") within a bottle-cap.

Affirmative Defense No. 6

85. To the extent Defendants are found to have infringed upon one or more of Plaintiff's alleged copyrights, an allegation Defendants specifically and vehemently deny, Defendants were "innocent infringers" in that they were unaware and had no reason to believe that their acts or omissions constituted such an infringement.

Affirmative Defense No. 7

86. Plaintiff has no copyright or other exclusive right in the "interchangeable functionality" of its products. By statute, copyright protection is unavailable for "any idea, procedure, process, system, method of operation, concept, principle, or discovery, regardless of the form in which it is described, explained, illustrated, or embodied in such work." 17 U.S.C. §

102(b). Plaintiff has no patent rights in its jewelry or other products, and has not asserted a claim for patent infringement.

87.. Explicit, step-by-step instructions for making bottle-cap magnets with images affixed to the interior (inside) of a bottle-cap were published and available to the public no later than 2003.

88. The concept of bottle-cap jewelry is not unique to Plaintiff, and predates the formation of Plaintiff's business.

89. The concept of interchangeable jewelry is not unique to Plaintiff, and predates the formation of Plaintiff's business.

Affirmative Defense No. 8

90. Plaintiff's trademark infringement and false designation claims are unenforceable against Defendants inasmuch as they are based on a word or phrase that is merely descriptive and thus not protected under the Lanham Act.

Affirmative Defense No. 9

91. Plaintiff's claims are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of unclean hands.

Affirmative Defense No. 10

92. Plaintiff's claims are barred, in whole or in part, by illegality.

Affirmative Defense No. 11

93. Defendants are entitled to recover their attorneys' fees and costs incurred in defending against Plaintiff's claims pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 505.

Affirmative Defense No. 12

94. Plaintiff fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

Affirmative Defense No. 13

95. Defendants are entitled to recover their attorneys' fees and costs incurred in defending against Plaintiff's claims pursuant to 17 U.S.C. § 505.

III.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, the parties pray for judgment that:

- A. Plaintiff take nothing by its claims against Defendants;
- B. Defendants be awarded their attorneys' fees, costs, and pre-and post-judgment interest; and
- C. Defendants be granted any further relief to which they are entitled.
